

Well you all know what time it is... It's picture time!!

Today the interns and I held a tabling event for "Respect for All" and "National School Choice Week". We decorated the table with food, scarves, pens, bottles, and other giveaways (see pic below). We were given tablets for the students to write a sentence about "Why I love my school". To encourage the students to be a part of the event, we added a first place (Harlem Globe Trotter Tickets) and second place (Wireless I Phone Chargers) prize for the best-written sentences.

The students began running to the table, and as an added surprise, we gave out the yellow scarfs that had the logo "School Choice Week" written on it out into the crowd.

You can imagine the fun everyone had.

Dr. B chose the winning entry; the winners were announced over the loud speaker.

It was an amazing event.

In closing, the interns and I had an amazing time, and we cannot thank Ms. Rose enough for allowing us to be a part of the National School Choice Week celebration.

The student's writings are displayed in the hallway on the third floor of the building so teachers, school staff, parents and visitors will have a chance to read what the beautiful sentences students wrote.
